Professor Dr. E. Suito

Emeritus Professor Eiji Suito

On the first of April, 1975, Dr. Eiji Suito retired, having completed 34 years of service at Kyoto University. He was named an emeritus professor by the University on the next day.

Graduating from Kyoto University in March, 1936, with his major in chemistry, he, as a graduate student, continued to study the chemical kinetics under the supervision of late Professor Emeritus Shinkichi Horiba at the Department of Chemistry, the Faculty of Science, Kyoto University. He was conferred a D. Sc. by Kyoto University for his studies on colloid catalysis by the differential thermal analysis.

Dr. Suito was appointed an instructor at the Faculty of Science, Kyoto University in April, 1942, and joined the Institute for Chemical Research, Kyoto University, in May of the same year. He was appointed an Assistant Professor in November, 1945, and simultaneously a full member of the Institute for Chemical Research. He was promoted to a full Professor of the Institute in May, 1951, to direct the Laboratory of Crystal and Powder Chemistry. He has given lectures on crystal chemistry since 1955 at the Graduate School of Science, and supervised dissertation works of many graduate students.

He has been a visiting instructor at several universities such as Kyoto University of Industrial Arts and Textile Science, Kobe University, Okayama University, Kumamoto University, Kagoshima University and Tokushima University.

Having been designated director of the Institute for two years since April, 1972, Dr. Suito made an enthusiastic effort for the betterment and development of the Institute. He served as a member of the University Council and various committees on the campus and greatly contributed to the university administration.

For six years since 1966, Dr. Suito played an important role as a member of the Science Council of Japan for the promotion of scientific research. He also served as Vice President of the Chemical Society of Japan, President of the Japanese Society of Electron Microscopy, President of the Clay Science Society of Japan and as a member of the Board of Directors of many scientific societies. He was awarded the prize from the Chemical Society of Japan for the physico-chemical studies on colloid and fine powder in 1970, and, in addition, prizes of many other scientific societies. His ability to develop research work was often seen in international congresses where he was a member of the organizing committees. Dr. Suito visited many foreign countries to attend a variety of international congresses where he read stimulating papers which always attracted the interest of the audience.

Owing to his sincere, thoughtful and warm personality, Dr. Suito wins the respect and friendship of those who come in contact with him.

This collection of papers contributed by his colleagues, former and present associates, students and foreign friends is dedicated to Dr. Suito in honor of his retirement.
