18 April 1811
The King held the Abhiseka twice. He followed the way of kings very faithfully. On the other hand, the people including the monks did not follow strictly the teachings of the Buddha. For several years the King tried to correct them. That included discussions and debates on religious beliefs and practices. For all these acts of benevolence, the King became the Lord of White Elephant, received tributes of untold riches and he had had, unlike his predecessors, an exceptionally long and prosperous reign. The kingdom had been largely extended. In big cities and large provinces like Rajagaha, Vesali, etc. there were thieves even during the Buddha's life time. Similarly the King's Golden City and Kingdom would have some cases of theft and robbery or aggression of one person against another. Punishments were meted out according to custom and precedent. It is inevitable that a criminal would be punished as he deserved. Nevertheless, when there were cases of misappropriation, etc. of the King's property, the King with magnanimity would condone such crimes.

Order: When a man is sentenced to be executed for having committed a crime against the life and property of the King, Ministers, Ministers of the Interior and Assistant Ministers shall refer to the general amnesty that the King had given to all people who had committed such crimes and apply for his release; ministers, etc. shall always be mindful of doing good for both the King and his subjects.

29 July 1812
Order: Paramarajagurudhammadvajapandita, Minister, Srilanka, petitioned for a programme of religious reformation in Srilanka headed by the Burmese as Buddhism there is in the decline; in the Golden City as well as in the kingdom of Burma, the Buddhist religious practices are not true to instructions given in the Suttanta Pitaka and (in consideration of our experience here) we would like to know what are their religious practices that require correction in Srilanka and in what way they like to have the reformation carried out; in another words we want to know whether they are prepared to follow closely the instructions, etc. regarding the way of life (including the monks) given in the Suttanta Pitaka or not; ask this to the envoys from Srilanka and report.

This Order was passed on 29 July 1812 and proclaimed by Kyaw Htin
Yaza Thu, Liaison Officer.

Note: The King's interest in religious reformation was found very early in his reign (that begun on 11 February 1782) and it persisted right to the end (when he died on 5 June 1819). First he tried to stop a schism between Atin-Monastic Robe on One Shoulder, and Ayon-Monastic Robe on Both Shoulders, (ROB 10 March 1782, ROB 3 June 1782, ROB 21 April 1784, ROB 23 April 1784, ROB 25 April 1784 and ROB 27 April 1784). Next he banned the Joti Sect who were a kind of nonconformists among the Buddhists at that time (ROB 15 July 1783, ROB 17 July 1783 and ROB 8 September 1783). Hluttaw was given specific instructions to suppress heresy (ROB 8 July 1810). He considered that giving special courses in the Vinaya (Book of Discipline) and having regular religious examinations might help to keep the monks to behave more like what the Buddha wanted them to be (ROB 12 March 1784, ROB 24 May 1784 and ROB 8 July 1784). Even a senior monk who failed in the Vinaya examination would be forced to leave the monkhood (ROB 12 March 1784, ROB 9 October 1787 and ROB 11 October 1787).

To extend the Buddha's religion he even encouraged to have schools for Buddhist missionaries opened (ROB 12 March 1784 and ROB 15 June 1784). He expressed his joy by recording in a stone inscription that there were no more schisms among the Buddhists in Burma (ROB 28 August 1784). His efforts on religious reformation, he thought, were successfully terminated when he had a Supreme Guardian of the Religion appointed in the person of Gunamunindabhisadhammadajamahadhammarajadhirajaguru (ROB 27 June 1786). He had to appoint Nanabhivamsadhammasenapatimahadhammarajadhirajaguru (ROB 19 March 1787) to succeed the first Supreme Guardian.

Twenty years later his interest turned towards another channel. He started questioning the truth of some popular beliefs in Buddhism. For example, he considered that the Buddha's Religion would last for 5,000 years only after the death of the Buddha was only a wishful thinking (ROB 5 October 1806). Between the two types of samgha, viz, Ariya samgha and Sammuti samgha, he felt that Sammuti was only a name in the sense that samgha today were not the real samgha (ROB 13 January 1811) and in the four Magga-Paths, he thought that the first two would be almost the same with the other two (ROB 21 October 1811). Then he seriously questioned the authenticity of the Buddhist religious texts that were in use in Burma (ROB 22 March
There would be additions or omissions or both (ROB 22 March 1807). Translations into Burmese were wrong in some vital places (ROB 22 March 1807). It would be best to get the Pitaka in its original written in Magadha (ROB 10 July 1810) and the one copied from Srilanka which was the only one available in Burma would have some serious mistakes in it (ROB 30 December 1811). Until the time that all these problems were solved, he considered it excusable for monks to follow any practice in their daily conduct (ROB 14 April 1807, ROB 8 November 1807, and ROB 3 November 1807). But to contend that a certain way had been followed by a long generation of Acariya - Teachers, could not be accepted as a good excuse (ROB 19 July 1801). He would help anyone if he wanted to become a monk in the way given in the Suttanta Pitaka (ROB 9 August 1812, ROB 12 August 1812 and ROB 25 August 1812). He conducted a series of religious conventions where all learned monks and men were invited (ROB 5 December 1807, ROB 19 December 1807, ROB 27 December 1807, ROB 31 May 1810, ROB 7 January 1811, ROB 12 January 1811, ROB 16 January 1811, ROB 30 January 1811, ROB 21 October 1811, ROB 20 December 1811, ROB 26 December 1811 and ROB 29 June 1812). When the mission from Srilanka arrived with a request that Burma lead a Buddhist religious reformation in Srilanka, the King replied that Burma had had various problems still unsolved and therefore he would like to know precisely what were the problems in Srilanka first (ROB 29 July 1812). He did take drastic measures by forcing some monks (including leaders) to leave the monkhood if they were found to be doing or preaching anything not given in the religious texts (ROB 28 June 1795, ROB 6 July 1799, ROB 20 July 1801, ROB 22 July 1801, ROB 31 May 1810 and ROB 8 July 1810). But finally he thought it expedient to wait until the people knew better. In the meanwhile all he could do was to put his attitude on Buddhism as practiced in Burma in writing calling upon people to make a serious study on them. (ROB 23 May 1818)

31 July 1812

Order: (1) Made annual offerings to Aggampati the Risi at 4.00 p.m. on 1 September 1812.

(2) No monk had ever succeeded to mislead a king by giving false information by submitting an epistle in all the dynasties of Sriksetra, Pagan, Myinzaing, Sagaing, Pinya and Ava; now there appears to have a monk who tries to do a trick by writing an epistle to the King; what shall we do with him?
This Order was passed on 31 July 1812 and proclaimed by Baya Kyaw Htin, Liaison Officer - cum - Chief of Caduceus Bearers.

Note: It is the first time that we ever notice the King to be so indecisive that he issued an Order in the form of a question. It seems that the offence was not serious and that the King was more amused than angry because we have many instances when he would tell a monk to leave monkhood or exile him when the offence was serious. Another reason of clemency is that he had had an Order passed not long ago (ROB 18 April 1811) that if an offence was something against his own personal interest, he would pardon the offender.

9 August 1812
Order: Nga Shwe Yi wants to become a monk in the way given in the Suttanta Pitaka; take him to Sanda Muni and help him become a monk as various teachers before him had become monks that way.

12 August 1812
Order: Those desiring to help men who want to become monks in the way given in the Suttanta Pitaka shall build Taw Ya Kyaung - Forest Retreats, as shelters for them allowing a space of either 200 ta / 1,400 taung / 700 yards / 640.08 metres or 300 ta / 2,100 taung / 1,050 yards / 960.12 metres in between each shelter.

13 August 1812

Nga Tha Ye; take them to Sanda Muni on (25) August (1812) and with the Suttanta Pitaka placed before them and by reciting the Ti Saranam - Three Refuges, they shall become monks.

(2) Those who want to provide these new monks with shelters shall build (Taw Ya Kyaung - Forest Retreats) with a space of either 200 ta / 1,400 taung / 700 yards / 640.08 metres or 300 ta / 2,100 taung / 1,050 yards / 960.12 metres in between each shelter.

(This Order was passed on 25 August 1812).

(25 August 1812)
Order: (1) Doing good or bad concerns nothing with the age of a person; without keeping Ti Sarana Guna - Three Refuges, no one would be a real Samana and Anagatadhaya Suttanta maintains that it is impossible to keep Ti Sarana Guna - Three Refuges, unless one renounces the world and live alone in a forest with no companion; follow the way of Anagatadhaya Suttanta and stay in a forest (repeet) to uphold Ti Sarana Guna - Three Refuges.

(2) Old age is no excuse for doing anything bad or not doing anything good; a monk, either young or old, shall leave the monkhood (if he fails to follow the way given in the Anagatadhaya Suttanta).

(This Order was passed on 25 August 1812).

30 August 1812
Order: Nga Ta was promoted from Ain Shay Wun - Crown Prince Officer, to Wun Gyi - Minister, but he did things detrimental to the interest of the King and Prince Pyay (Prome), Prince the King has no choice but accept the facts as they are presented to him and sanction the arrest of Nga Ta; withdraw the title and insignia of rank that had been given to him; seize all his property animate and inanimate and

This Order was passed on 19 November 1812 and proclaimed by Liaison Officer - cum - Chief of Caduceus Bearers.

8 March 1813

Order: A king's residential city is invariably inhabited by people distinctly divided into four castes; it is like this from the time that the world was created; the Future Buddha was elected Maha Thamada by the people who requested him to reward or punish them as they deserved and who promised to share with him one tenth of their income; the descendants of (Maha Thamada) became kings; there were people who tried to do only the good and to abstain from doing anything bad and who would elect to dwell only in wood and they became Brahmins; there were people who did the trading and farming and who promised to give one tenth of their income to the king were the rich and the prosperous called Tha Htay and Tha Gywe; there were also people who had been wicked in their former lives and therefore they were destined to be poor and to work very hard for subsistence; this is what we called the caste distinction and it would not be so pronounced in Paccanta - Outskirts; in a great centre where the most powerful king resided, the caste distinctions become more pronounced; made a list of who's who in the city; in that list state clearly who are service men and who are tax payers; only the service men would be given official duties and aspire to become ministers. etc. and only the traders and farmers would be given the titles of rich men; those in the lowest rung of people would never be allowed to raise themselves to higher status by mixing with their superiors; they shall remain Dun Sanda - Beggers, and Sandala - Grave Diggers, etc.; this Order to classify the people in four castes shall be carried out with utmost precision; whenever a group of service men is organised, the members of the group shall take the oath of allegiance to the King and once they are registered as the King's men, no one could take them away to do their bid; if they have debts to settle, report it to the King; if they are forced to do any other thing than the King's work, the person who does that shall be executed.

This Order was passed on 8 March 1813 and proclaimed by Zayya Nawyatha, Liaison Officer.

11 April 1813

Order: No other king in Burma had had any direct dealing with Majjhimadesa - Central India, and they would not know that the Maha Bodhi tree (under which the Buddha attained the Enlightenment) is still in existence there; fortunately the King's officers went there and they reported its existence; in addition to this the King's officer said that the people living in Banaras (town) and Majjhimadesa (province) expect that the Burmese King would extend his rule over them; this was made all the more obvious by the fact that the Burmese King had now a statue of Kappila the Risi taken from their land; on the other hand, old records or prophecies in Burma maintain that the King is destined to visit the Maha Bodhi tree; leaving enough people in Burma so that crop raising and tax paying would not be impaired, select people from the rest of the population to accompany the King; selection shall be made on the basis of one man from each household and fifty men form one group; each group shall be organized like this:

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Thway Thauk Gyi - Senior Leader</th>
<th>1</th>
</tr> </thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Akyat - Junior Leaders</td>
<td>4</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Lu Nge - Members</td>
<td>45</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Total</td>
<td>50</td>
</tr> </tbody>
</table>

get a total of eighty groups or 4,000 men for the Aung Dat - Army of Victory; the King is marching when the rainy months are over i.e. after October; send this information to Dhannawati (Mrok U, Myo Haung), Rammawati (Yan Bye, Ramree), Dwarawati (Thandwe, Sandoway) and Meghawati (Man Aung); these towns have extensive hinterlands so that when they have enough time to grow crop and collect them they could very well provide food for the marching troops;
Min Gyi Kyaw Htin, Myo Wun - Town Officer, Dhannawati (Mrok U, Myo Haung) and Myo Wun - Town Officer, Toungoo, shall see to the fact that all available land in the said areas shall grow crops and collect them for the troops who are coming with the King.

This Order was passed on 11 April 1813 and proclaimed by Kyaw Htin
Yaza Thu, Liaison Officer.

Note: A Burmese inscription at Bugh-Gaya, Gaya district, Biha, (Pl.299), mentions that a pagoda built by Asoka where Sujata gave the milk rice to the Buddha was in ruin and Lord Monk Pamsuku (of Pagan) had it repaired once; when it fell into ruin again King Lord of White Elephant sent Lord Monk Teacher Siridhammarajaguru to repair it but; unfortunately it was not done; after some time the King told Lord Monk Nge to carry out the repairs at that ruined pagoda and this time the repairs begun on Friday 16 December 1295 and completed on (Friday) 14 October 1306; the King was not properly informed when he said that no other Burmese king had had any direct dealing with Central India before him. We know that nothing happened like the Burmese invasion of British territories in India at that time and it was good that the King said nothing about this later.

Note: Except for the names this Order is the same with ROB 27 October 1838 (see Tin Nan Waw 1975, 78-80). This suggests that from now onwards one form was used for other similar appointments until the fall of the dynasty in 1885.)

2 September 1815
Order: For over twenty years the King tried to teach the people (including the monks) the use of Pon Daw (Pyet Ga Dain) - the King's Own (Calendar), and method to decide day, date, month and year of the Buddhist sabbaths; no one understands them well and there is no hope that anybody would master the use of (New Calendar) properly; forget the Pon Daw (Pyet Ga Dain) - the King's Own (Calendar), and go back using the old one.

This Order was passed on 2 September 1815 and proclaimed by Kyaw Htin Yaza Thu, Liaison Officer.

Note: ROB 14 March (1574) and ROB (14 March 1574) mention similar attitude to stop an effort of twenty years to introduce new calendar and allowing the people to go back using the old one and the monks' schism of Atin Ayon - Robe covering One Shoulder or Both Shoulders, etc. is of no importance regarding the endeavour to attain nirvana and therefore the monks are allowed to follow the practices of their own sect on the one hand and the King would even tolerate the revival of ancient Pwe Gyaung sect. All these suggest that even though the date and the name of the officers who proclaimed the Orders are of an older time, the Orders are of King Badon's time. Obviously the phrase 'after twenty years' and the name of schism among monks given as Atin Ayon all support this view.

17 September 1815
Order: In the Golden City (of Amarapura) magical objects are imbedded in all Myo Daunt - Corners of City Wall, Myo Hteit - Top Piece on City Gate, and along Tha Ye Hko - Soldier's

   Nga Taung Byon
   Nga Taung Gyi
   Nga Taung Myint and Nga Taung Thaman;

17 November 1815

Order: Yaza Nanda Kyaw is appointed Atwin Wun - Minister of Interior; he is loyal and he is a kind of person who would never forget the gratitude that he owes to the King; so far he had served the King with honesty and diligence; it was for these reasons that he was successively given official positions until he became Than Daw Zint - Heald, in the Interior and in this way he has had much administrative experience; in addition to this the King trusts him very much and therefore he now becomes an Atwin Wun - Minister of Interior; as an Atwin Wun - Minister of Interior, he has to supervise the affairs of the Interior together with Pyay Yay - Affairs of the Capital City, and Ywa Yay - Affairs of the Villages (in the Provinces); to do these onerous duties he has the three guiding principles of

as well as precedence.

This Order was passed on 17 November 1815 and proclaimed within Kun Zin - Four Central Pillars, of Hluttaw, by Zayya Theinga Thu, Liaison Officer.

Note: This Order and ROB 27 December 1807 are the same except the dates and I take 17 November 1815 as the probable date because most people get confused when they come across Pon Daw Pyet Ga Dain - the King's Own Calendar.

23 November 1815

Order: Min Hla Nayatha is appointed Wun Gyi - Minister; he is loyal and he is a kind of person who would never forget the gratitude that he owes to the King; so far he had served the King with honesty and diligence; in addition to this he is one of the Kyay Yin Kyun Yin - Original Servants who served the Prince who is now the King, and it was for these reasons that he had been entrusted with several duties which were both Atwin Hmu - Confidential, and Pyin Hmu - Public; in this way he became well versed in administrative affairs and he has had the King's trust; a careful selection has been made among the King's Brothers, King's Sons and King's Officers Senior and Junior for this position of Agga Maha Senapati - Commander-in-Chief, together with Achoke Gyi Akaing Gyi - Power to Control and Manage (called) Wun Gyi - Minister or the Highest Level of Responsibility, and he is now given that position; the King has a big city and an extensive territory including many vassal states and (the Minister) has to carry out Pyay Yay - Affairs of the City, and Ywa Hmu - Affairs of Villages (in Provinces), far and near, together with the duty to promote the Buddha's Religion on the one hand and to ensure a continued prosperity of the state even in the time of the King's descendants on the other hand; bearing these duties in mind, he has to carry out his work under the three guiding principles of

Yaza Wut - Way of King and Lawka Wut - Way of People and following what his predecessors had done before him, he has to work in complete harmony and full cooperation with his colleagues and subordinates.

29 June 1816

In the Golden City, towns and villages of the kingdom, the King had for over twenty years tried to teach how to fix the Buddhist sabbath days so that they would agree with the religious works; on the other hand the King pointed out where Burmese translation of some words and phrases in some of the Buddhist works are wrong and he told the learned monks to discuss these points and correct them; the monks were of no help (as they were most reluctant to correct the works left by their teachers); both monks and men wanted to ignore these mistakes and to go on as before with neither correction nor improvement.
Order: (1) The Buddhist sabbaths shall be fixed as it had been done years before without correction.

With this Order the King admitted defeat in his life long attempt to reform the religion.

- Life-taking

- Lying
- Slander
- Harsh Language

- Covetousness
- Ill-will and
- Wrong Views;

those who would indulge in doing these courses of immoral act will never be able to free themselves from (samsara) and those who abstain from doing them will attain nirvana.

This Order was passed on 29 May 1817 and proclaimed by Zayya Theinga Thu, Liaison Officer - cum - Chief of Caduceus Bearers; copy this Order in a Yun Baung Parabaik - Black Book with a Lacquered Cover, and after having it carried on an elephant, read it at all busy road junctions inside the Capital and outside it while people with offerings in their hands listen.

Order: In addition to the fact that various Damathats disagree (in some aspects of law), (sic.) the original Manu Kye - Manu Explained has never been brought (into this country); when there is no reference to a certain type of case in Pyan Dan Gyi - Great Proclamation (ROB 28 January 1795) and / or no judgement (that could be used as precedent) on some particular type of dispute, etc., decision shall be made on the aggregate of the four major works of Damathat, viz. Mano Thaya Shway Myin in Four Parts; send this Order to all officers in the province as follows:
- Akyi - Officer of a Minor who holds a Town in fief
- Away Myo Wun - Provincial or Frontier Area Town Officer
Gaung - Head (of a Group of Houses or Men)
Hti Yan Nan Yan - Governor (Prince or Vassal)

This Order was passed on 31 May 1817 and proclaimed by Zayya Theinga Thu, Liaison Officer - cum - Chief of Caduceus Bearers.

Note: The phrase Damathat Gyi Lay Zaung Ni Nyut Ya - In so far as the four major works of law would agree, suggests that one should use either all the four parts of Mano Thaya Shwe Myin or all four separate works of law. viz. Manu Dhamathat, Mano Thaya Shwe Myin, Kaingza Manu Yaza and ROB 28 January 1795. In ROB (21 June 1814) which is an appointment Order of a judge, it is mentioned that when a plaint is made at a court, the judge shall consult Manu Damathat first; if that is not sufficient use Mano Thaya Shwe Myin in four parts; if further reference is necessary, use Kaingza Manu Yaza. In my opinion the King would prefer using the four works in which ROB 28 January 1795 was his own contribution and therefore to be taken as the most important one.

15 July 1817
Order: Attention Sakka, Four Guardian Gods of the World and Various Good Gods together with their Chief Lieutenants on Six Sides of the Earth who are guarding All Land and Water in Big Oceans and Five Major Rivers plus 500 Tributaries; like the forefathers beginning with Mahasamata, Mahasuddassana, etc. who were Cakkavala Mandhata, the King observes the four ways of a leader and ten rules of a king believing that these would help in improving the life of his subject people; with a view to enhance the welfare among these subject people the King, like Asoka, underwent the Mudhhabhisaka (Coronation); he often sent offerings to Guardian Spirits as directed in the seven Aparihaniya (Ways to keep Prosperity from Diminishing); at Rangoon, Hanthawaddy (Pegu) area, Ramanna province which forms one of his territories, there is a pagoda (Shwe Dagon) which enshrines eight strands of the Buddha's hair given to two trading brothers Taphussa and Phalika and the relics of three former Buddhas; because of the presence of these relics and because of other religious establishments there the Religion would last for 5,000 years (after the death of the Buddha); now Kala Thabon - Foreign Rebels, appeared like clouds to sun and moon, curtailing the exuberence of the Religion; no monk and men would tolerate this; on the other hand it seems that Sakka and all Guardian Gods had failed in their duty to look after the interests of the Buddha's Religion; the King always protects his people like a mother with only one son is continually worried about the safety of her son; there are sixty two kinds of heretics and Kula Thabon - Foreign Rebels, are the worst among them; for their aggression in Rangoon they deserve punishment though they are not punished yet because the Guardian Gods had failed to do their duty; now the Guardian Gods are called upon to punish them as:

Adamma Nat had fallen upside down from his carriage and got killed for abusing Dhamma Nat (Dhamma Jataka No. 457);

all people on an island who turned bad were drowned by the Island Nat with a tidal wave (Samuddavanija Jataka No. 466);

King Dandaki and his people were destroyed for insulting Kisavacchara the Risi (Sarabhanga Jataka No. 522);

a stupid crow and its followers were driven away by God of sea (Samuddha Jataka No. 296); and a group of unholy mendicants were driven away by serpents led by Virupakkha and Erapatha;

these Kala Thabon - Foreign Rebels, are quite different from us good people as heaven is different from earth or as one shore of an ocean is different or far from its another shore; they shall be driven away as King Vissinaka was driven by Sakka who had taken the form of a hunter and Matai the hunter’s dog (?Arama Dusa Jataka No. 268); they shall be chased away until they get right back to their own island; the King is doing everything in support of the Religion and he had therefore earned the support of the spiritual beings and with their help his soldiers would not have to try hard to expel the heretics from this land of the Religion; they shall be scattered or subdued as the enemies of King Asadisa, Banaras, had once been subdued without a blow.

* * * * *

Attention Guardian Spirits of City, Town, (Village), Forest and Hill; the King is a true descendant of the Sakya Sakian Line of Kings; he ascended the throne as a rightful heir; he had had the Coronations of Muddhabhisika and Sakalabhisika and he never fails to send the usual (monthly or yearly) offerings to all the Guardian Spirits of City, Towns, etc. as prescribed in the Aparihaniya rules; he helps his people to become true believers in Buddhism and to live a good Buddhist life; there are in his territory some hidden treasures left by the rich; as buried these are useless; they shall be unearthed and used in support of the Buddhist Religion; there is a guide to these treasures written on copper plaques; excavations shall be made to establish how much information in it is correct; men are assigned to do it and it is the duty of the supernatural beings to safeguard them against evil spirits and to expedite their work in getting all the buried treasures and send them to the King.

This Order was passed on 15 July 1817 and Thiri Zayya Thu, Than Zint - Herald, Crown Prince Office, was sent with a copy of the Order to Chaung U, Kan Gyi, Mon Ywa, Tha Bauk and Ywa Thit where the treasures are buried according to the (copper plaque) record and Daing Wun Ga Daw - Madame Officer of Land Tracts, was sent with another copy to Kyauk Yit, Myaung and Na Bet.

Note : Under one single date of 15 July 1817 there are two Orders of clearly different nature; the first one called upon the celestial beings guarding the Buddha’s Religion to drive away the invaders who had already occupied Rangoon (on 10 May 1824) and its date would be well after 10 May 1824; probably it was passed on 24 May 1824 (Kun: // 1967 Reprint, 379) when Thado Min Gyi Maha Min Gaung was sent with over 1,300 men to Rangoon; as a matter of fact the date 15 July 1817 belongs to the second Order calling upon the Guardian Spirits to help in finding the buried treasures; see ROB 29 July 1817 also on buried treasures.

Order: (1) The King in his desire to get men and monks do things properly in accordance with either the Pitaka in religious affairs or the Veda in non-religious affairs, had taught them only the good and perfect ways both in monastic and secular lives for several years; unfortunately they were unable to learn anything from him; Shin Ponna the Great Elder came to Le Gaing in Thunaparanta - Places on the North of the Irrawaddy, and he succeeded in making 500 men and 500 women to become Yahanda - Last Stage before reaching Nirvana; in another words Buddhism prospered in Burma from the time of Shin Ponna’s visit; from Thunaparanta - Places on the North of the Irrawaddy, the Buddha’s religion spread to Tampadipa - Places on the South of the Irrawaddy; in that southern half of the Irrawaddy, Buddhism thrived in Thayaykhittaya where twenty seven kings ruled; from there it spread to Arimaddanapura or Pagan where forty one kings ruled; nevertheless there is a popular story that Anawyatha put an end to old beliefs and introduced Buddhism in Pagan; this story even gets into the chronicles; on the other hand there is the Ponna Sutta and the King has to remind the people (including monks) of this Ponna Sutta; a young Samanera - ascetic, from Thaton was looking for food and hunters took him to Anawyatha who believed him to be a saint and taking his words Anawyatha discarded thirty Shin Ayi with 60,000 followers who upheld the Religion left by Shin Ponna in order to introduce the Religion from Ramanna of Talaings; the land which came to be known as Ramanna was in fact under Thayakhittaya which was established by Duttabaung in 444 BC; this country of Talaings under Thamala and Wimala with centre at Hanthawaddy (Pegu) which came into existence only in AD 1148, i.e. in the reign of Alaung Sithu (1113-1163) in Pagan in AD 1148 and an officer ciled Alain Ma was sent to develop Madama (Martaban); in view of these facts, the country of Talaings was not an old province and the religious works taken from there by Nawyatha would not be either old enough or authoritative enough to be used as guides for others to follow and therefore Anawratha was wrong to rely on them and start a new religion in Pagan; kings of Pagan, Myin Zaing, Sagaing, Pinya and Ava followed Anawyatha and they all went wrong; all the successive religious teachers would know it and they should try somehow or other to correct it but they failed to do so; in the time of Nyaung Yan ten kings, Thalun, 1633 -1648, collected all available Buddhist literature and allowed monks to be ordained as it was introduced by Anawyatha and Arahan and to hold religious examinations annually, but he also allowed all other sects of Buddhism to carry on with their own ways; they would be doing one or several of the following:
