

Kyoto Studies in Art History
Volume 1 2016

Sacred and Profane in Early Modern Art

Edited by Kayo Hirakawa

Department of Aesthetics and Art History
Graduate School of Letters
Kyoto University

Kyoto Studies in Art History Volume 1

Sacred and Profane in Early Modern Art

Edited by Kayo Hirakawa

Department of Aesthetics and Art History, Graduate School of Letters,
Kyoto University, Kyoto, 2016

© Graduate School of Letters, Kyoto University and the authors

Printed in Japan by Nakanishi Printing Co., Ltd.

Contents

Preface .....	1
The Man of Sorrows in the Staatliche Kunsthalle Karlsruhe: A Reconsideration of Dürer's Gold-Ground Painting .....	3
Kayo Hirakawa
Where Has Paris Gone? Sebald Beham's Fountain of Youth Reconsidered .....	19
Ayumi Yasui
Winners and Losers: The Impact of the Reformation on the Art Market .....	37
Andreas Tacke
Frans Hals's Painterly Style and His Tronie -like Genre Paintings: An Examination of the Influence of Flemish Head Studies .....	59
Toshiharu Nakamura
An Attempt of Interpreting Some Dutch Genre Paintings as a Variation of De Hollandse Tuin and De Hollandse Maagd .....	85
Yoriko Kobayashi-Sato
Dutch Painters in Roman Churches in the Early Seventeenth Century: The Entombment of Christ by Dirck van Baburen in the Context of Patronage .....	107
Michiko Fukaya
Sacred Art in an Age of Mechanical Reproduction: The Salus Populi Romani Madonna in the World .....	129
Mia M. Mochizuki
The Authors .....	145

The Authors

KAYO HIRAKAWA is Associate Professor of Art History at the Graduate School of Letters, Kyoto University. She has published her dissertation, The Pictorialization of Dürer's Drawings in Northern Europe in the Sixteenth and Seventeenth Centuries (Peter Lang, 2009), and other articles on Northern Renaissance art, as well as cultural exchange between Italian and Northern European art in the fifteenth and sixteenth centuries. Her research on the diversity of pictorial forms in Northern Europe in the sixteenth century now continues.

AYUMI YASUI is Professor of Art History at Kanazawa College of Art. She has published many articles on Northern prints in Renaissance and Baroque, including "Belgica, Personification of the Low Countries in Prints during Eighty Years' War" (The Bulletin of Kanazawa College of Art 53, 2009). She is one of the translators of the first Japanese edition of Abraham Bosse's treatise on etching published in 1645 (Research Institute of Kanazawa College of Art, 2004). Her recent research focuses on the development of early etching in Europe.

ANDREAS TACKE holds a Chair in Art History at the University of Trier (Rhineland-Palatinate). He is the author of Der katholische Cranach: Zu zwei Großaufträgen von Lucas Cranach d. Ä., Simon Franck und der Cranach-Werkstatt 1520–1540 (Philipp von Zabern, 1989); Kirchen für die Diaspora: Christoph Hehls Berliner Bauten und Hochschultätigkeit 1894–1911 (Gebrüder Mann, 1993); and Die Gemälde des 17. Jahrhunderts im Germanischen Nationalmuseum, Bestandskatalog (Philipp von Zabern, 1995). His research has focused on the European and non-European implications of German art and cultural history and the intersection of art and science. His work has been recognized with a fellowship from the J. Paul Getty Foundation and the ERC Advanced Grant from the European Union Research Council.

TOSHIHARU NAKAMURA is Professor of Art History at the Graduate School of Letters, Kyoto University. He is the author of Peter Paul Rubens between Art and Politics (Sangensha, 2006), the exhibition catalogue, Rubens: Inspired by Italy and Established in Antwerp (Mainichi Newspapers, 2013), and numerous articles on Dutch and Flemish painting of the seventeenth century. He is also editor of Images of Familial Intimacy in Eastern and Western Art (Brill, 2014). His current research primarily focuses on the formation of taste for drawings, sketches, and unfinished works among art lovers in the seventeenth and eighteenth centuries.

YORIKO KOBAYASHI-SATO is Professor of Art History at Meiji University, Tokyo. Her main concern is Dutch art of the seventeenth century and the appropriation of Western art by the Japanese during the Edo period. She has recently published the following books and articles: Vermeer (Yasaka Shobo, 2008); "Vermeer and his Thematic Use of Perspective" (2006); "An Assimilation between Two Different Cultures" (2010); with Mia M. Mochizuki, "Perspective and its Discontents or St. Lucy's Eyes" (2012); "Japan's Encounter with the West through the VOC" (2014); and Cosmography of a Garden (Seidosha, 2014).

MICHIKO FUKAYA is Associate Professor at the Faculty of Fine Arts, Kyoto City University of Arts. Her field of research is Dutch paintings of the sixteenth and seventeenth centuries, with special interest in the Utrecht Caravaggists and the artistic relationship between Italy and the North in general. Among other articles, she published her dissertation on the iconographical study of Cimon and Pero (Kyoto University Press, 2012), and she, with other researchers, recently translated the Lives of the Northern Painters by Karel van Mander into Japanese (Chuo-Koron Bijutsu Shuppan, 2014), in which she also provided a critical commentary on its terminology.

MIA M. MOCHIZUKI is Associate Professor of Renaissance and Baroque Art History at New York University Abu Dhabi and the Institute of Fine Arts, New York University. She is the author of The Netherlandish Image after Iconoclasm, 1566–1672 (Ashgate, 2008), which received the College Art Association Publication Award, the ACE/Mercers' International Book Award for Religious Art and Architecture, and the Ashgate Editor's Choice Award for a significant contribution to the field. She was also editor of In His Milieu: Essays on Netherlandish Art in Memory of John Michael Montias (Amsterdam University Press, 2006) on the archival and socio-economic study of art. Forthcoming publications include: the monograph The Jesuit Global Baroque and the anthology The Global Republic of Things.